

Camilla Ween, WTS London Joint Events Sub-Committee Chair
Principal Transport Planner, Transport for London (TfL)

Camilla is an architect, working in TfL's Land Use Planning department, advising the Mayor on the relationship between strategic master plans and the public transport network. She has just returned from a sabbatical at Harvard University where she was a Loeb Fellow, researching urban design, climate change and political science.

Camilla is passionate about making cities that are sustainable, that have high quality transport and pedestrian and cycle networks and has public spaces that are conducive to citizenship. This means a strong emphasis on high quality urban and landscape design and beautiful architecture that is integrated with sustainable transport. It also requires the mediation of space and the reclaiming of streets for urban life.

Before joining TfL in 2001 she worked on promoting sustainable transport projects for London, several Millennium projects and before that for Eurotunnel, after 10 years in private architectural practice.
